About Henrik Juel
- just a student of life

Privately, I live way out in the country at Fyn, maintaining an old house and a large garden with fruit and vegetables.

My main academic background is in Philosophy (Critical Theory, Hermeneutics, Phenomenology, all the great Germans and Greeks) - but I dabble into many aspects of the humanities: aesthetics, communication, rhetoric & film studies - including practical video production and oral presentation.

I have had scholarships and teaching jobs at 5 different Danish universities before settling at Roskilde University. I am currently teaching on the International Track, Communication Studies.

I have a passion for great films late at night, for climbing mountains on my Pinarello, for driving my Alfa Romeo Brera, for meeting my old Viking Ship Friends, for trying to dream in French, and so I am:
